

Return to Work Education Series

Effective management of physical claims with secondary psychological factors

Too often psychological barriers form the basis of a worker's incapacity for work following a physical injury. Appropriate management of secondary psychological injuries are critical in the RTW process and ultimately support a successful RTW outcome. This session is specifically targeted at the management of secondary psychological injuries including early intervention strategies, appropriate communication and RTW best practice.

Improving workplace health and wellbeing through innovative health programs and digital technology

Nabenet Health has partnered with employers in developing and delivering innovative and evidence based health and wellbeing strategies to improve safety, health and injury management processes and return to work outcomes. Nabenet Health Manager, Mark Manokaran, will provide an insight on recent exciting health projects with an emphasis on digital technology and how they are shaping the health and wellbeing landscape of employers.
